52. A young colleague of yours is worried that the proposal for a paper he has submitted to the scientific committee of an international conference may be rejected due to his lack of advanced research experience. As a senior colleague, well aware of his research capacity and seriousness of purpose, you wish to cheer him up and encourage him by saying:

- A) I told you that your paper needs to be extensively revised. You may be good at research, but your arguments in the paper are extremely controversial.
- B) I know how a scientific committee reaches a decision. Chances are slim for your paper to be accepted as it is hardly based on sound research.
- C) Relax. Though you haven't got much experience in research, you are a promising scientist, and I am sure they will take that into consideration.
- D) It is too early for someone like you to be welcomed as a speaker at an international conference. You need to show your seriousness of purpose in your studies.
- E) As far as I am concerned, you should never have submitted your proposal because I know your research for this paper has been very limited.

53. As a highly respected economist, you have been invited by a group of businessmen to give a talk on the current global crisis. However, on the very day you are expected to speak, you are taken ill, and, upset about missing such a chance, you call the organizers and say:

- A) Frankly, I have already decided to cancel the talk that you wished me to give on the current consequences of the global crisis.
- B) Although I am not feeling well today, I would really like to take this opportunity and discuss with you the effects of the economic problems that the world is currently facing.
- C) Let me first express my apologies for canceling the talk which I am expected to give today on the global impact of the current economic crisis.
- D) This is to inform you that, due to my prolonged poor health, I am not going to make my speech today on the global effects of the economic crisis.
- E) Unfortunately, I am not well at all. I would like to convey my apologies for not being able to share my thoughts with you all on the problems affecting the world today.

54. You are the moderator at a panel on tax reform. The discussion has drifted into a debate on the question of whether indirect taxation needs to be abolished altogether. You feel that, instead of narrowing the panel down to a single issue, the speakers should deal with various other issues that are related to taxation and tax reform in general. So you turn to the speakers and say:

- A) I think we have to look at tax reform from various angles. So I would like you to discuss many different aspects of the subject rather than focus only on one aspect.
- B) I can see that you'll never reach an agreement on tax reform. In this case, there is no use in discussing indirect taxation.
- C) I am glad to point out that each speaker has dealt with tax reform in detail and come up with a wide range of recommendations that need to be taken into consideration.
- D) We all know that indirect taxation is widely practised in the world, and so it is important that this taxation must be looked at from different angles.
- E) All this time, no speaker has yet addressed the problem of indirect taxation. So I would urge every speaker to discuss how this form of taxation can best be reformed.

- A) I have warned you several times, and you still continue to come late. This is a serious offence that can never be tolerated. So be careful.
B) You know very well that you are always late for work and that this is intolerable. Let me warn you once again, and if you insist on being late, I'll have to take disciplinary action against you.
C) I am sure you are aware that it has almost become a habit with you not to get to the office on time. I wonder whether there is something that prevents you from being punctual.
D) I've been informed by some of your colleagues that every day you seem to be late for work. So I sent for you to talk it over and warn you once again.
E) Every day, you apologize for being late for work. I don't find your excuses very convincing. Unless you show up on time from now on, you'll be fired right away.

56. A friend of yours, who you think is a fully qualified accountant, has applied for a vacancy in a company, but his application has been turned down by the Human Resources Department of the company. You are surprised. So, on his behalf, you call the director of the department, tell him about this unexpected decision, and ask him politely for an explanation:

- A) I didn't expect that my friend would be rejected by your company, since, in my opinion, professionally he is perfect, so I would be grateful if you could kindly give me your reasons for his rejection.
B) It is clear that you are biased against my friend, who is a good accountant, and so I want you to tell me frankly why he was not accepted.
C) Your rejection of my friend's application to your company is absolutely unfair, since he is the best accountant I have ever known. So I need to know your reasons why he was not accepted.
D) Contrary to my expectations, my friend, who is a professional accountant, has been rejected unfairly by your company. Give me a full account of your reasons for his rejection.
E) I am extremely upset that you have turned down my friend's application for a job in your company. Now I want you to tell me in detail why he failed to qualify.

70. Richard :

- I've been reading about the ancient Egyptians lately.

Antony :

- How interesting! Anything particularly drawing your attention?

Richard :

- It is claimed by some linguists that the early Egyptian language might represent the survival of a "root" language from which the other languages of the Afro-Asiatic group evolved in the past.

Antony :

- ----

- A) Possible. In fact, the language of the ancient Egyptians has for long been a matter of debate among linguists.
B) Actually, as you may remember, the first known permanent settlement in Egypt dates back to approximately 4750 B.C.
C) You know that the patterns of development in ancient Egypt differed greatly from those of the Sumerians in Mesopotamia.
D) It is true that, due to the Nile, ancient Egypt was able to forge a cultural and political unity.
E) You must recall that the Egyptian system of pictographic writing, called hieroglyphs, has always fascinated modern scholars.

71. Judy :

- What do you know about John Stuart Mill?

Tom :

- As far as I can recall, he was the most committed and influential defender of personal liberty in Victorian Britain in the 19th century.

Judy :

- ----

Tom :

- Indeed, he was. He wrote many essays on women's political rights.

A) Agreed. In his On Liberty, he defended individual freedom in the face of the state and "the tyranny of the majority."

B) I know his On Liberty became one of the defining texts of Western liberalism.

C) He strongly argued that human freedom was essential to social progress.

D) Yet, for me, more importantly, he was a dedicated supporter of suffrage for women.

E) Historically, the Reform Bill of 1867 in Britain marked the high point of British liberalism.

72. John :

- By the way, can you tell me what the expression "the scramble for Africa" means?

Harry :

- Oh, I thought you knew it, since you are seriously interested in the history of Africa.

John :

- ----

Harry :

- Well, it is about the colonization of Africa. It indicates the scope and speed with which the major European powers, excited by stories of rubber forests and rich diamond mines, conquered and colonized Africa in the 19th century.

A) For instance, I know that in 1884 a conference, attended by the representatives of the European colonial powers, was held in Berlin to settle the matter of control over the Congo River basin.

B) It has been pointed out that by the 1830s the French had created a general government of their possessions in Algeria.

C) I am afraid I don't. I came across it in an article I was reading yesterday. There was no explanation given.

D) Actually, the colonial powers' partition of Africa in the 19th century was the most striking instance of European imperialism.

E) According to some eyewitness reports, in the colonies, Africans worked in appalling conditions, with no medicine or sanitation and too little food.

73. Liz :

- I am puzzled about why declining birth rates in the West have been accompanied by growing populations of older adults.

Susan :

- You are right. Actually, it is a very complicated issue, and there is a wide range of reasons for it.

Liz :

- ----

Susan :

- I don't know where to start. I think one obvious reason is improved standards of health care.

A) Thank you so much. I'll take your advice and do some research on the subject.

B) Exactly. You can perhaps outline some of them for me.

C) I believe a new type of demographic crisis different from this confronts Western governments.

D) One can definitely see that globalization has a serious impact on the world's population.

E) Especially Asia's population as a whole has increased nearly four times over since 1900.

74. Harriet :

- I am writing an article about the Cold War period. There is a great deal of material I have to deal with.

Ares :

- I suggest you focus on a specific topic rather than giving a general account.

Harriet :

- ----

Ares :

- So, your article will, I am sure, arouse a great deal of interest in academic and political circles.

A) Right. I will demonstrate how the Cold War has given way to more complex global relations.

B) You know the Eastern European revolutions of 1989 brought about the collapse of the Soviet Union.

C) Especially the Soviet Union's increasingly severe domestic problems led to mounting protests in Russia in 1991.

D) Everyone knows that the Iron Curtain had established one of the most rigid borders in European history.

E) In my opinion, since the end of the Cold War, adapting to change has been difficult throughout Eastern Europe.

75. Isabel :

- Here is an interesting article on Byzantine learning. Have you seen it?

Fred :

- Let me have a look. No, I haven't, but it does seem interesting.

Isabel :

- ----

Fred :

- Well, we know from history that, in education, Byzantine schools based their instruction on classical Greek literature.

- A) In fact, Byzantine achievements in art and architecture have always been admired.
B) Evidently, Byzantine scholars were very interested in the politics of ancient Greece.
C) As it has been argued by most historians, religion dominated Byzantine life.
D) One can point out that inventiveness was highly prized in Byzantine culture.
E) It gives a full account of the Byzantine interest in classical Greek literature.

The 16th century in England is generally known as the Tudor period, which historically lasted from 1485 to 1603. Among the famous Tudor sovereigns were Henry VII, Henry VIII, and Elizabeth I. In fact, the early years of the Tudor period were marked by significant changes in trade and in the arts of war. Henry VII made commercial treaties with European countries. Economically, England, which had always been a sheep-raising country, was by now manufacturing and exporting significant amounts of cloth. As lands were enclosed to permit grazing on a larger scale, people were driven off the land to the cities, and London grew into a metropolitan market with sophisticated commercial institutions. These changes had an impact on the traditional feudal social order, which also began to decline; also, due to the introduction of cannons and firearms, the feudal system of warfare became obsolete. Yet, it would be a mistake to imagine these changes as sudden and dramatic. In fact, it was a slow and long process whereby England was transformed into a modern state.

76. According to the passage, it was during the Tudor period that ----.

- A) England's overseas trade was adversely affected by ongoing wars in Europe
- B) feudalism in England was further strengthened
- C) England's exports to European countries were significantly in decline
- D) sheep-raising was introduced into England, which had large areas of grazing
- E) London was transformed into a major trade centre

77. It is pointed out in the passage that the changes that took place in Tudor England ----.

- A) were fundamentally inspired by the social and economic developments already being witnessed in Europe
- B) had far-reaching effects on social and economic life
- C) were mainly confined to social life and improved the efficiency of the feudal social order
- D) initially resulted from a revision of the traditional arts of war that had depended on the use of cannons and firearms
- E) greatly reduced all the political and legal powers that English sovereigns had traditionally enjoyed and used

78. One understands from the passage that the Tudor dynasty in England ----.

- A) was best represented by Henry VIII, who followed a policy of friendship with other countries
- B) introduced a number of military reforms in order to build the strongest army in Europe
- C) focused its main attention on the improvement of agriculture in the country
- D) was represented by powerful sovereigns, who played a leading role in European politics
- E) came to power in the late fifteenth century and ruled the country over a century

79. It is clear from the passage that, due to developments in cloth-making in Tudor England, ----.

- A) most farming lands were turned into grazing fields for the sheep
- B) English merchants began to look for new markets in order to export more goods
- C) rural people gave up farming and migrated to London in search of employment
- D) the economic prosperity of the people increased enormously
- E) many cities, including London, competed with each other for economic prosperity

80. On the basis of the passage, one can state that, during the Tudor period, England ----.

- A) earned large amounts of revenue from its exports
- B) took little interest in the affairs of continental Europe
- C) experienced a long process of social and economic transformation
- D) emerged as a major sheep-raising country in Europe
- E) remained totally indifferent to the economic and political changes in Europe

In the last third of the 19th century, new technologies transformed the face of manufacturing in Europe, leading to new levels of economic growth and complex realignments among industry, labour and national governments. Like Europe's first industrial revolution, which began in the late 18th century and centred on coal, steam and iron, this "second" industrial revolution relied on innovation in three key areas: steel, electricity, and chemicals. For instance, steel, which was harder, stronger and more malleable than iron, had long been used as a construction material. But until the mid-nineteenth century, producing steel cheaply and in large quantities was impossible. That changed between the 1850s and 1870s, as new and different processes for refining and mass-producing alloy steel revolutionized the metallurgical industry. Although iron did not disappear overnight, it was soon eclipsed by soaring steel production. So, steel began to be used for various purposes. In Britain, for example, shipbuilders made a quick and profitable switch to steel construction, and thus kept their lead in the industry. Germany and the US, however, dominated the rest of the steel industry. By 1901, Germany was producing almost half as much steel as Britain and was able to build a massive national and industrial infrastructure.

81. It is stated in the passage that, in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, ----.

- A) the steel industry in Europe surpassed all the other industries, including those of electricity and chemicals
- B) governments in Britain and Germany took severe measures to prevent radical labour movements
- C) the US produced so much steel that it began to manipulate the world steel market
- D) Britain's use of steel in the shipbuilding industry strengthened its dominant position in this sector
- E) the use of iron and steel as construction materials was wholly confined to shipbuilding

82. According to the passage, the first industrial revolution ----.

- A) caused so much labour unrest in Europe that the steel industry did not develop adequately
- B) came into being during the later decades of the eighteenth century
- C) originally began in Britain and, then, spread to Germany and other European countries

- D) led to the manufacture of a wide variety of goods, ranging from construction materials to chemicals
- E) did not last long, since it did not lead to the development of new technologies

83. One understands from the passage that, before the mid-nineteenth century, ----.

- A) steel production had been costly and did not amount to much quantity
- B) the "second" industrial revolution had spread all over Europe
- C) Germany and Britain had been in fierce competition in developing shipbuilding technologies
- D) Germany and the US collaborated against Britain for research in chemistry
- E) the manufacturing industry in Europe had benefited a great deal from new technologies

84. According to the passage, in the second half of the nineteenth century, the metallurgical industry underwent a radical transformation ----.

- A) although some countries, like Germany and the US, were still using obsolete methods of production
- B) due to Germany's lead in the development of new steel production technologies
- C) because Britain's shipbuilders had discovered new ways to build bigger but less expensive ships
- D) when alloy steel began to be refined and mass-produced through the introduction of innovative processes
- E) owing to new discoveries and technological progress in the fields of electricity and chemistry

85. It is suggested in the passage that, in the nineteenth century, innovative developments in the areas of steel, electricity, and chemicals ----.

- A) led to a lasting rivalry in shipping between Germany and Britain
- B) turned Germany into the strongest and most prosperous country in Europe
- C) brought about the "second" industrial revolution
- D) greatly contributed to the improvement of Britain's infrastructure
- E) became the main concern of national governments in Europe

In 1764, there was a serious quarrel over taxation between the British government and its colonies in America. The British government continued to think of the colonists as British subjects. In 1700, there had been only 200.000 colonists, but by 1770 this number rose to 2.5 million. Obviously, such large numbers needed to be dealt with carefully. Some American colonists decided that it was not lawful for the British government to tax them without their agreement. Political opinion in Britain was divided. Some felt that the tax was fair because the money would be used to pay for the defence of the American colonies against French attack. But several important politicians agreed with the colonists that there should be “no taxation without representation”. Hence, in 1773, at the port of Boston, a group of colonists threw a shipload of tea into the sea rather than pay tax on it. The event became known as “the Boston Tea Party”. The British government responded by closing the port. But the colonists then decided to prevent British goods from entering America until the port was opened again. The colonists’ action was regarded as a rebellion, and the British government decided to defeat it by force. Thus, the American War of Independence got underway. The war lasted from 1775 until 1783. The British government had no respect for the colonists’ fighting ability. The result was a disastrous defeat for the British forces. At the end of the war, Britain lost all the American colonies except Canada.

86. It is clear from the passage that, since the American colonists were not represented in the British Parliament, ----.

- A) some politicians argued that Boston should be exempted from all kinds of taxation
- B) they refused to pay the tax required of them by the British government
- C) it was much easier for them to start a war of independence against Britain
- D) they did not have a standing army and, therefore, were unable to defeat the British forces
- E) they were not subject to the laws of Britain and felt free to take action against Britain

87. It is pointed out in the passage that not every politician in Britain ----.

- A) supported the British government’s decision to tax the American colonists against their will
- B) believed that the French would dare to invade the American colonies
- C) agreed that “the Boston Tea Party” jeopardized trade with the colonies
- D) was convinced that the British forces in America were strong enough to defeat the colonists
- E) was of the opinion that the American colonists would ever dream of independence

88. It is stated in the passage that, within a period of almost three quarters of a century, ----.

- A) Britain and France got into a fierce competition in order to colonize a very large part of America
- B) Britain lost the war against the American colonies and had to grant their independence
- C) Canada grew demographically well ahead of the other American colonies
- D) Britain’s trade with the American colonies reached a level well above all expectations
- E) the population of the American colonies increased to more than ten times the original number

89. One understands from the passage that, because of the tax crisis, ----.

- A) the American colonists imposed sanctions on British goods
- B) the port of Boston was closed for over half a century
- C) Britain took urgent precautions in order to increase its military capacity in America
- D) the import of tea into the American colonies came under the British monopoly
- E) France expressed its willingness to aid the American colonies against Britain

90. It is stressed in the passage that, for the British government, ----.

- A) the port of Boston was of vital political importance for relations with the American colonies
- B) the political representation of the American colonies was fully dependent on their payment of taxes
- C) France’s political aims in America had to be countered by the colonies themselves
- D) the people living in the American colonies were always considered to be British subjects
- E) a defence agreement with the American colonies had to be reached urgently against France

The Mississippi is one of the world's great continental rivers, like the Amazon in South America, the Congo in Africa, or the Volga in Europe. Its waters are gathered from two-thirds of the US and, together with the Missouri, which is its chief western branch, the Mississippi flows some 6.400 kilometres from its northern sources in the Rocky Mountains to the Gulf of Mexico, which makes it one of the world's longest waterways. The Mississippi has been called the "father of waters". Through all its lower course, it wanders along, appearing lazy and harmless. But people who know the river are not deceived by its benign appearance, for they have had many bitter struggles with its floods. They have had to learn that nothing is to be gained by fighting against the rages of the mighty stream. To control it, Americans have had to accept some of the river's own terms and to undertake the patient work of conserving and rebuilding soil, grasslands and forests, far back where the waters begin to gather.

91. It is clear from the passage that the sources of the Mississippi's waters ----.

- A) are so limited that the river seldom causes flooding along its banks
- B) are not as many as those of other continental rivers in the world
- C) need to be conserved to protect the river from environmental pollution
- D) are spread over a great part of the US
- E) cannot be ascertained, since the Rocky Mountains have not been explored fully

92. It is pointed out in the passage that, although in its lower course the Mississippi looks quiet and harmless, ----.

- A) most people believe that it may one day overflow its banks
- B) the people living along it are not aware of this
- C) actually it has caused much devastation
- D) people have always been indifferent to the threats it poses
- E) in its upper course it is extremely violent and destructive

93. In the passage, attention is drawn to the fact that the Mississippi's waters can best be controlled ----.

- A) if environmental measures are taken around its northern sources
- B) so long as its northern sources are definitely identified
- C) provided that Americans know how to struggle with them
- D) only if the people living along its course are evacuated
- E) in the same way that the world's other big rivers have been controlled

94. One understands from the passage that the Mississippi ----.

- A) has far more branches for the gathering of its waters than the Congo in Africa and the Volga in Europe
- B) differs from the Amazon in South America and the other continental rivers in the world largely because its waters are much shallower
- C) is far more navigable than the other continental rivers in the world and, therefore, becomes a commercially profitable waterway in the US
- D) flows so fast throughout its course that, despite the long distance, it does not take long for its waters to get to the Gulf of Mexico
- E) cuts across the US from the Rocky Mountains in the north to the Gulf of Mexico in the south

95. It is suggested in the passage that the American people ----.

- A) have in the end learned how to get along with the Mississippi
- B) always boast of having the world's longest river in their country
- C) have a very strong sense of the environment and, therefore, conserve their forests
- D) think that, without the Missouri, the Mississippi would have been just a mere stream
- E) regard the Mississippi as "the father of waters" because it is fully navigable

The Copernican revolution began over 500 years ago with the realization that the Earth was not the centre of the universe, but we still await its grand finale: the anticipated discovery of life elsewhere. Where else might we find life? The vast scale of the universe makes it virtually certain that there are other Earthlike settings. In our own solar system, Mars's distance from the Sun makes it sufficiently Earth-like; so, especially with increasing evidence for occasional liquid water, many are looking there for the first signs of extraterrestrial life. Recently, however, a new contender has emerged, and surprisingly it is from the cold outer solar system: it is Jupiter's moon Europa. As one of the four satellites of Jupiter, discovered by Galileo in 1610, Europa is now believed to have water in a liquid state, even though it is so far from the Sun. Thus, the possibility of liquid water on Europa has opened the door to speculation about life on this satellite of Jupiter.

96. One clearly understands from the passage that, until Copernicus in the sixteenth century, ----.

- A) Mars had generally been regarded as the planet with life on it
- B) the search for life elsewhere in the solar system had been futile
- C) it had been commonly believed that the centre of the universe was the Earth
- D) there had been many attempts to understand the outer solar system
- E) the planets in the solar system had all been discovered and studied

97. According to the passage, the discovery of Earthlike settings in other parts of the universe ----.

- A) is definitely out of question, since the universe is extremely vast
- B) would no longer make the Earth seem like the only planet with life on it
- C) seems possible, but it would be very costly and dangerous to attempt it
- D) has been an obsession for scientists ever since the time of Copernicus
- E) was what Galileo was primarily interested in in the early seventeenth century

98. It is pointed out in the passage that, in recent years, ----.

- A) some scientists have come to regard Copernicus's contribution to astronomy as negligible
- B) scientists have come to understand the reasons for Galileo's discovery of Europa
- C) astronomers have focused on an in-depth study of the outer solar system
- D) there has been much controversy about the geological features of Mars
- E) it has been suggested that Jupiter's moon Europa may have liquid water on it

99. It is stated in the passage that currently Mars ----.

- A) has been established as the only planet with a vast amount of water under its surface
- B) is being fully explored because, as a planet, it is so close to the Earth
- C) has been partially studied, and so it still maintains its mystery as a planet
- D) has been the main focus of the scientific search for extraterrestrial life
- E) and Europa provide a great deal of evidence for a better understanding of the solar system

100. According to the passage, it is hoped that ----.

- A) the amount of liquid water on Mars will be sufficient for life on the planet
- B) in the future only Europa will become man's new home in the universe
- C) one day Earth-like life will be discovered outside our own planet
- D) living beings will be found on one of Jupiter's satellites
- E) the search for extraterrestrial life in the universe will never be disrupted
